DXing Northern Neighbors

listeners with local QRM on 540 kc, CKCK on 620 kc. at Regina looks promising.

When the ANIK communications satellites are launched in 1972, the Yukon will be fed Toronto and Montreal programming from a powerful earth station at Shirley Bay (near Ottawa) for retransmission to cable systems in arctic communities. For the past year, CATV systems have been rapidly multiplying in Southern Ontario and Quebec and will be hooked into the satellite.

Only one far-north community, Frobisher Bay in the Northwest Territories, has a broadcast station that has much chance of being heard in parts of North America, CFFB operates on 1200 kc and, as the sunspot count drops, chances of hearing it will improve. CFFB aired a special after-midnight DX test in 1970 but prospects were spoiled by a harmonic of CFCF (600 kc, Montreal) appearing on the channel.

Your best bet for logging either the Northwest Territories or Yukon is via aircraft passing over them on the transpolar route. Optimum frequencies are 8910 kc and 8938 kc where you'll also find Resolute Bay Aeradio. This frigid community is also destined to have a satellite link. At this end of Ottawa's space empire, CFCF operates its well-publicized 49-meter outlet. CFCX on 6005 kc, while CBF on 690 kc, is widely received. From Toronto, CBC's English language CBL (740 kc) and French CJBC (860 kc) are also commonly heard.

Electronic Circuits Manual

by John Markus

Over 950 pp., 8½ x 11, $19.75
More Than 3,000 Illustrations

For hobbyists . . . experimenters . . . engineers . . . technicians. Includes all latest developments in solid-state components...integrated circuitry electronic tube designs. First use pays for book many times over.

115 new operational amplifier circuits . . . 93 motor control circuits . . . 39 lamp dimmer circuits . . . 56 automotive circuits . . . 23 optoelectronic circuits . . . 64 counter circuits—and over 2,000 more!

Special Features
- 99 chapters group similar circuits for easy comparison
- Complete data on all component values
- Concise descriptions of significant circuit features, performance and operating data, and source citations
- Circuits arranged for quick, accurate evaluation of advantages and drawbacks
- Many outstanding designs from other countries

Partial Contents: Audio Control Circuits . . . Automotive Control & Ignition Circuits . . . Code Circuits . . . Flasher Circuits . . . Hobby Circuits . . . High-voltage Circuits . . . Lamp Control & Dimmer Circuits . . . Metal Detector Circuits . . . Power Supply Protection Circuits . . . Tachometer Circuits . . . Telephone Circuits . . . and many, many more!
